be removed, provided that the person is retained in an area covered by a surveillance camera system in operation on the site.

9. If someone has been ejected from a sports event, or who was not ejected because an intervention by the organiser (security staff) at the venue of the sports event was thought to provoke actions by the spectators that would have disproportionately compromised the safety of the sports event, the organiser will ban such person from attending the sports events.

10. Anybody who resists by violence or threatens a legal action taken by the police or security staff for maintaining the order, anybody who enters or attempts to enter an area closed to the spectators or a certain group of spectators, or throws to this area an object that may cause bodily injury, commits a crime.

11. Liability for any damage arising from non-compliance with the safety regulations shall be borne by the spectator. In case damage is caused by several people, spectators involved in causing the damage shall have joint and several liability. Liability for indemnification shall not affect the spectator's offence or criminal liability. The perpetrator shall indemnify the football federation for all costs arising from the damage.

12. The organiser shall make sure that objects that cannot be taken to the premises pursuant to the Ground Regulations, but can otherwise be lawfully held, and do not contradict the spirit of sportsmanlike cheering, as well as objects exceeding the permitted dimensions are taken over in a documented manner, are stored safely and are returned when their owners leave the premises. Food and drinks shall not be taken over for safeguarding purposes either.

13. During the sports event the organisers – or the security staff if such staff are employed – are authorised to monitor the participants and make recordings allowing the personal identification of participants via surveillance cameras, the number and location of which shall be specified by the police.

14. The organiser has taken out liability insurance for the participants. In the case of such events the availability of liability insurance is shown on the tickets and season tickets too.

15. In order to ensure that spectators can leave the stadium in a safe manner, the police may keep the spectators in the sports facility until the groups of spectators of the opposing team leave the sports facility, the area secured by the police as well as from the fans' movement routes.

16. If the sports event was cancelled or was held behind closed doors or in front of a limited number of spectators, the price of the ticket will be refunded within three working days. If the sports event is interrupted, the tickets and the season tickets – provided season tickets have been sold – shall be valid for the repeated event.

17. During the sports event the security staff shall continuously monitor compliance with the Ground Regulations.

18. For these Ground Regulations the following definitions shall apply:
